SENATOR HERBERT SLATER BUSY IN LEGISLATURE

To Father New County Government Act--Introduces Bill to Fix School Holidays--Would Restore Greek Chapel

Senator Herbert Slater is preparing again to make a fight against compelling the farmers of the State to come under the provisions of the industrial accident law. The Industrial Accident Board is bent on compelling the farmer to insure against accidents, instead of leaving it optional with him to do so.

Senator Herbert W. Slater is preparing a bill setting apart certain holidays for the public schools. He names the usual legal holidays, including Admission Day and the day following Thanksgiving day, and takes from the trustees the authority to say what holidays the pupils and teachers shall enjoy. This measure is strongly backed by the State Teachers' Association, of which Miss Minnie Coulter of Santa Rosa is one of the executive committee and a member of the committee on legislation.

Following up his inclination toward the preservation of the historical, Senator H. W. Slater has prepared a bill calling for a $2,000 appropriation to restore the old Greek chapel at Fort Ross, erected by the Russians when they landed there in 1812. The chapel is of hewn logs and can be restored easily. It would be a splendid addition to California's historical places. The chapel was turned over to the State eleven years ago, but little has been done to preserve it.

District Attorney Clarence F. Lea completed the draft of the proposed new County Government act, Tuesday, and forwarded it to Senator Herbert W. Slater, at Sacramento, who will father it in the Senate and see to its becoming a law, says the Press Democrat.

The bill provides for a number of changes in various county offices in the way of deputies and their salaries. While the courts have upheld the county in the way of deputies and their salaries, the action of the Legislature in providing additional deputies for officers whose work has been materially increased for one reason and another.

Provisions have been made in the new measure to provide county clerks with an additional deputy at $1,200 per year, and one copyist, while the number of registration deputies during registering periods is increased from two to four as the work has doubled with the enfranchisement of women.

The county assessor, who has lost $2,600 by the abolishment of poll taxes, is provided with $3,000 for payment of field deputies for which the former amount was used.

The district attorney's stenographer is raised from $720 per year to $900, as her work has been greatly increased in the past few years.

The county recorder is allowed an additional copyist at $900 per annum.

The county surveyor's deputy is increased from $900 to $1,200 per year.

It is felt these few changes are absolutely necessary to equalize the pay and to provide the necessary force to carry on the work of the various offices.

A comparison of the Sonoma County offices with any of the larger counties of the State shows that the local force is from half to five-eighths of the larger counties in proportion to the amount of actual work accomplished.

What Sonoma's Carnegie Library Has to Offer the Reading Public

Last week there convened in Chicago the League of Library Committees, during the course of which the plan of dropping newspapers was earnestly discussed, the claim having been advanced that newspapers are necessary for library patrons, owing to their being so easily accessible to the general public.

It is not at all likely that newspapers will ever be banished from free libraries, so great is the public demand for them. The dailies of San Francisco are absolutely essential in country reading rooms, as is to be attested in our own free library.

So numerous and incessant were the requests for the metropolitan dailies in the Sonoma Carnegie Library, that the Board of Trustees subscribed for the Daily Chronicle, and was fortunate and appreciative when the publishers gratuitously placed on the table the Evening Bulletin. More papers would be added to the list if the outlay were possible, and it is regrettable that so many publishers—especially in the county—narrowly believe it of injury to their business to contribute their publications to the smaller libraries, whose limited resources will not permit of the subscribing for these papers.

However, the Index-Tribune believes that the Sonoma Public Library is sufficiently well supplied with newspapers, circumstances considered, and right here, in passing, we do not believe it will be amiss to call the attention of the reading public of Sonoma to the many splendid publications, which to be obtained regularly in the local library.

The excellence of the magazine section of the Sonoma Library has been very generally commented on and commended by visiting strangers, as it is seldom in a city so small as our own one finds a public reading room so admirably equipped with current literature. Through the courtesy of Librarian Miss Kate McDonnell, we place before our readers a list of the various magazines and papers provided for library patrons:

A dispatch from Sacramento dated January 9th says: The Chinese egg, long in storage and shipped across the Pacific, must cease to masquerade as "strictly fresh" side by side with the new-laid California product. The dark brown fruit of the Chinese hen must not seek to compete with the pure white egg of the Leghorns, for Assemblyman Knox Boude of Sebastopol intends to ask the legislature to stand with him as champion of the California hen.

It is Boude's plan which will be incorporated into a bill, to have the Chinese eggs stamped with the word "imported" and to have labels on articles of food that are made with the imported eggs.

The regular meeting of the supervisors was changed from the first Monday to the second Monday of the month by vote of the board. This change was made to facilitate the handling of claims. Under the old system bills for the month's work had to be filed before a full month's work was completed. The rule that all claims must be filed no later than the Thursday before the meeting will now be strictly enforced. The change will take effect in March.

The supervisors set February 3 as the date on which to hear a number of petitions for changes in school boundaries.

All juvenile work for the next year will be brought up in Judge Seawell's court, according to a court order which was made and entered last Saturday. During the past year, work has been carried on by Judge Denny, but the change went into effect with the entering of the order.

Two years ago the legislature passed a law that a superior judge could only handle cases of this nature for a year. Last January the order was made changing the cases from Judge Seawell's court to that of Judge Denny, and now that the year has expired the order changing the cases back again has been made.

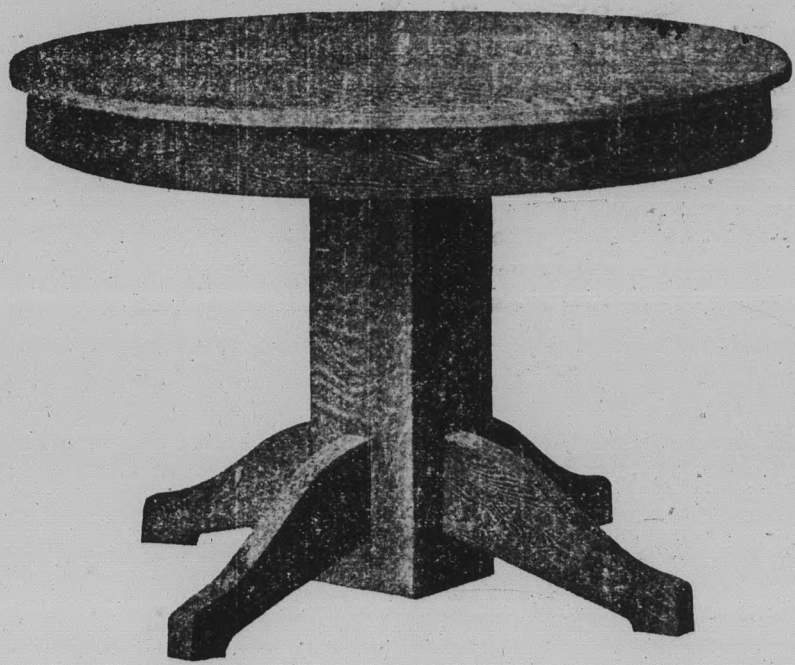

Gallant Rains, who has been contesting the election of H. F. Doss as supervisor, gave up the fight and decided to allow the court to make an order declaring his opponent duly elected. This was done Friday at the close of the count in the superior court, says the Petaluma Courier.

There are thirty precincts in the district, and twenty-five had been counted, with a net result of seven votes lost to Doss. It was stipulated the results in Sebastopol one, two and three, Hessel and Molino precincts should be those certified in the official canvass.

The recount had been in progress for nine days and a total of 4735 ballots had been counted, of which three hundred and ninety-six had been thrown out owing to irregularities in marking by the voter.

Judges Emmet Seawell and Thos. C. Denny, of the Superior Court, sitting en banc, Monday, ordered three hundred trial jurors drawn by the board of supervisors for the ensuing year. The members of the board are planning to make selections with a view of getting only names of men who can serve and thus prevent the extra expense of summoning jurors only to have them excused on account of various exemptions allowed by law. In the past this has been a heavy expense to the county.

Spending Honeymoon at Boyes

From the Sunday Chronicle, we also take the following note, of interest in baseball circles:

Howard Mundorff, outfielder of the San Francisco Seals, and well-known in the Northwest as well, "put one over" on his friends a couple of weeks ago, when he was married to Miss Borine Goessage, a Santa Rosa belle, who has been spending the last year in San Francisco.

"Mundie," not anxious for publicity, arranged that the securing of the license should be a quiet affair, and later Judge Van Nostrand agreed to marry the young couple, and they are now at Boyes' Springs spending their honeymoon. That the Sonoma County resort should be selected for the honeymooning is appropriate in that Mundorff met his future wife there in 1910. Later their acquaintance was renewed when the Seals took up their spring training at the camp, and friendship ripened into love.

Mr. and Mrs. Mundorff will remain at Boyes' a week longer before taking up their residence in San Francisco.

"Easy Jim" Reviews Shipments of 1914

FROM VINEBURG

Fred and Arthur Batto transacted business in Petaluma, Monday last.

Miss Adele Andrieux was the guest of her sister, Mrs. Chas. McDewitt, in Sonoma, several days this week.

Sunday was rather a quiet day in peaceful Vineburg as most of the people were enjoying the sights in the Exposition City.

Jim Small visited Sonoma City, on Sunday last, and sure all his lady friends were glad to see him. Of course, they were. Why not?

Tuesday morning a car of choice Wellington coal, containing twenty-five tons was switched in on Batto's Spur. Good coal to burn is right.

Mrs. Johansen accompanied by her son, David Volquardson, were passengers on the south-bound train to the metropolis, Tuesday morning.

Constable John Murray, our ex-mayor, and family were guests of friends in the burg on Sunday last. Our Jack cannot forget Old Vineburg, believe me.

Frank Nolan, manager of the Nolan Draying and Warehouse Company, of San Francisco, is a guest at New Vineburg Inn and will remain a week or so.

A. Marucci and Fred Hansen of Sonoma, and G. Jones, of San Francisco, spent last Friday in the tules on a hunting trip, and there were canvas backs and mallards flying through the air. Well, if they did not get the limit, they came near it—very near it.

Howard Brown and G. Jones were guests at an elaborate birthday dinner tendered Mrs. Fred Hansen, of Sonoma, Sunday last, January 10th. A large number of this lady's Sonoma Valley friends assembled at the feast, and wished their popular hostess many happy returns of the day, and departed well pleased at the reception.

There may be trouble in the burg in the near future, and it is just this way: Our popular and efficient marshal, Henry Forni, declares that, according to Article 23, Section 13, Clause 144, of the New Charter of Vineburg, reads that the marshal's hours are from sunrise 'til sunset and that, on foggy or rainy days, when the sun forgets to get up, he won't, either. Let us have a recount.

G. Jones, of San Francisco, who has been the guest of Howard Brown, at New Vineburg Inn, departed for Mexico City, on Monday last. Previous to the breaking out of the civil war in Mexico, Mr. Jones held a responsible position as traffic manager on one of the leading railroad systems for three years, but was compelled to resign his place on account of the war. He is returning to resume the position he formerly occupied and regrets leaving Sonoma Valley.

Vineburg has had during the year 1914, quite a boom from a business point of view, and through the courtesy of our popular station agent, Grover C. Rubke, we learn that the following amount of freight was handled by the N. W. P. Railroad at this point last year: One hundred and fifty-seven cars of wine—from the famous cellars of Gundlach-Bundschu Co. and the Gold Medal Cellar of the Carl Dresel Company—were shipped to all parts of the world; one hundred and thirty-seven cars of green fruit were sent out, twenty-one straight cars of pears going direct to New York alone; one hundred and thirty-five cars of feed and grain were received at Batto's Spur, and sixteen cars of dried and canned fruit were shipped from the Spur up to date, and this amount does not include the local freight received at Vineburg in a year.

EASY JIM.

CIVIC BODIES HOLD INTERESTING MEETINGS

Chamber of Commerce May Have to Buy Right of Way for Black Point Cut-off

The Board of Directors of the Sonoma Valley Chamber of Commerce held an interesting meeting at the City Hall, Monday night, at which President A. M. Thomson, M. D., presided.

The highway committee reported that if arrangements can be perfected with Messrs. Chas. Stornetti and John Yenni, by which they will release a right-of-way through their property, work would at once be inaugurated. Both gentlemen are asking payment for the several acres of land which each must give in order to permit the completion of the highway.

To secure this right-of-way through the Stornetti and Yenni properties, it will be necessary for the Chamber of Commerce to raise something in the neighborhood of $2,000, an unforseen difficulty and one which it is feared will create extended delay in the work.

The Chamber of Commerce has just received from the Tourist Association of Central California attractive booklets, in which Sonoma County is given some worthwhile advertising. Nicely-written mention is given the "Valley of the Moon," the "Bear Flag Monument," "Mission San Francisco de Solano," and many of the leading resorts. Publicity of this nature will prove very advantageous to the valley and to Sonoma County generally, resulting in the bringing of many visitors and possible home-seekers.

The Board of City Trustees met in adjourned session at the City Hall, Monday evening, January 11th.

The Week's Record of Social Happenings

Dal Poggetto-Rivara Wedding

The sequel to a charming romance occurred in the St. Francis Catholic Church, Sunday, January 2nd, when Albert Paul Rivara, a prominent young business man of San Francisco, claimed as his bride Miss Giglia Dorothy, the youngest daughter of City Trustee and Mrs. Charles Dal Poggetto.

The ceremonial was solemnized at high noon, in the presence of a large number of the relatives and friends of the contracting parties, Rev. Father Comerford reading the marriage service.

The bridal pair and attendants entered the sacred edifice to the inspiring strains of Lohengrin's Wedding March, executed by Miss Leonora De Martini. The bride, preceded by her sister, Miss Alma Dal Poggetto, who walked alone—was escorted by her father, by whom she was given away. The groom was supported by Emilio Venuti, of San Francisco.

The beautiful bride was lovely in a robe of white crepe de chine, with trimmings of rare lace and the time-honored bride's heritage of orange blossoms. The flowing bridal veil was held in place with a wreath of the favorite blossoms. She carried a shower of bride roses and ferns.

The graceful maid of honor was charmingly gowned in pink crepe de chine, draped with silk marquisette and gold lace, and she carried a shower of bride-maid roses. Both bride and maid of honor wore dainty chiffon caps.

Following the nuptials, an elaborate breakfast was served in the home of the bride's parents. The residence was artistically decorated under the direction of B. Mori. Over the center of the prettily appointed dining-table was suspended a bell of pink and white chrysanthemums and ferns, from which streamers of pink and white satin ribbon were held in place at the table with beautiful blooms.

Among those from out-of-town present were: Mrs. M. and Miss Dora Garbaldi, mother and sister of the groom; Misses Adeline Gallo and Katherine Depauli; Messrs. Tony Palazzo, Lawrence Locurcio and S. Macchetto, all of San Francisco.

Mr. and Mrs. Rivara departed on the afternoon train on a honeymoon trip through Texas, Mexico, Arizona and other points. Pictured postcards received by the bride's family during the week evidence the fact that the pleasures being enjoyed by the young people are many and varied.

On their return they will reside in San Francisco.

Reared to womanhood in Sonoma the bride—a member of one of the most highly esteemed of our pioneer families—enjoys the regard of a wide circle of friends whose cordial bon voyage follow the matrimonial barque launched so happily. May it anchor safely.

Anniversary Celebrated

Friday of last week was the anniversary of the birth of Mrs. E. T. Casson, one of Sonoma's popular and esteemed society matrons, and during the afternoon the comfortable suburban home of the Cassons was invaded by a number of the lady friends of the hostess, and a few hours passed in a thoroughly enjoyable manner.

A feature productive of much merriment was the dancing of the years-ago favorite—the Virginia Reel—in which matrons upon whom the snow of time lay lightly, moved with the grace of youth through the intricate figures. With the waning of the January afternoon, Mrs. Casson's guests departed, with the expressed hope that she and they would meet in happy reunion on many birthday anniversaries of the future.

College Men Enjoy Dinner

At the Union Hotel, on Friday night of last week, there occurred an event of a noteworthy and pleasurable character. The gathering was a "stag" affair, and the company comprised only gentlemen who were graduated from or had been students at universities.

To promote sociability was the thought in mind of the gentlemen who arranged the function, at which were present Revs. T. M. Price and Edwin F. Brown, Carl Leebuck (alumni secretary of the University of California), M. H. Rowell, Dr. W. B. Hays, M. W. Erskine, Walter Bundschu, F. T. Duhring, Julius and Otto Dresel, F. S. Duhring and Charles Lane.

At seven o'clock a sumptuous dinner was served, during the discussion of which college reminiscences were related and converse flowed in entertaining channels. Informal talks of a thoughtful nature, touching upon the duties and prerogatives of the college man as a citizen, and his boundless opportunities to stimulate progressive education.

Following the repast, music was enjoyed, Pros. Rowell's rich voice being heard to decided advantage in fine solos. Frederick Duhring, Jr., presided at the piano, and a number of popular ballads, old and new, were sung by the company before the goodnights were said.

Grand Ball Tonight

Manager James Modini and Captain Ralph Evans are elated over the advance sale of tickets for the Grand Ball, which is to be given by the Sonoma Baseball nine at Union Hall tonight, the proceeds from which are to be used for the purchase of new uniforms.

The boys have been working like beavers to make a success of the undertaking, and they deserve the encouragement of the public generally.

Baseball is one of the few clean, wholesome sports in which the athletically inclined may indulge without fear of criticism, since it has, as a matter of fact, no objectionable features.

Therefore, help the boys get their new suits for the season, and whether you dance or not take a ticket. For those of you who do enjoy the pleasurable pastime, full value will be received for the fifty cents charged for admission. The floor of Union Hall is in fine condition for dancing, and the announcement that music is to be furnished by the Pauli-Gottenberg Orchestra is further guarantee of a good time.

Episcopal Ladies Entertain

The college men of our city are not the only members of Sonoma's social circle to conceive the idea of creating a greater degree of sociability by concerted effort. The ladies of Trinity Episcopal Church also desire to contribute to the increasing of acquaintanceships by the holding of monthly card parties or teas at the homes of the members of Saint Barbara's Guild.

The initial event, a card party, was given by Mrs. G. H. Hotz, president of the Guild, at the spacious and hospitable Hotz home on Broadway street. Despite the inclemency of the weather a large number of card-players gathered to enjoy the interesting pastime. When the finals were announced, it was found that Mrs. H. Lutgens and Mrs. Wm. Clewe had tied for honors. The ladies decided the contest by drawing, and Mrs. Clewe proudly carried away the trophy, an embroidered guest towel. The gentleman's prize, a leather card case fitted with cards, was won by Otto Brandt.

To Resume Card Parties

The Sonoma Valley Woman's Club has also decided to resume the giving of monthly card parties which were so popular last season, and a prime factor in establishing a greater degree of sociability among young and old. This uniting of youth and age at public social gatherings is something to be encouraged, and card-playing is one of the few pastimes which permits of the intermingling of all classes in a really pleasurable way. Many delightful evenings may be anticipated, with the Episcopal ladies and members of the Woman's Club, respectively, as hostesses.

Birthday Surprise

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Breitenbach was the scene of a jolly gathering of young people, last night, who assembled in response to invitations issued to celebrate the sixteenth birthday anniversary of the twin daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Breitenbach, the Misses Dorothea and Dorothy, popular members of the younger social set. An account of the party, which was a surprise to the young ladies, will appear next week.

LOCAL BREVITIES.

Dr. W. B. Hays paid a professional visit to San Francisco, Monday.

"Dick" Fussell will be greatly missed from his accustomed haunts for the next few weeks, having taken his departure, Wednesday morning, for Monterey, where he will spend a month visiting relatives and friends.

A. L. Pierce, of San Francisco, grand marshal of the U. A. O. D., of California, will pay a fraternal visit to the Sonoma Lodge of Druids tonight. It is expected that Grand Marshal Pierce will be accompanied by other prominent metropolitan members of the fraternity. A fine banquet, to be served by L. Quartaroli, at the El Dorado Hotel, will follow the business session of the lodge.

Harriet Beecher Stowe's world-famed and thrilling novel, "Uncle Tom's Cabin," will be portrayed at the Don Theater, Friday night of next week, January 22nd. This strong, heart-stirring American story is pictured in five acts, and so wonderful is the photography of the production that not one thrill is missed by the absence of dialogue. "Uncle Tom's Cabin" will be shown one night only, with the popular-priced admission of ten and twenty cents.

CARD OF THANKS.

I desire to express my deepest gratitude and appreciation to the many sincere friends of my beloved husband, Harry H. Granice, for the sympathy extended me in his passing. My heartfelt thanks are also returned to all whose friendship and condolence were further expressed in the sending of floral remembrances. MRS. GRACE GRANICE.

F. Clewe has decided to sell all his Crusader shoes, as he is putting in a new line. The price of Crusader shoes has always been $4.00 per pair, but in order to insure quick sale they will be sold for $2.90. Sale starts today, Saturday, January 16th. adv.

ANNUAL SEED DISTRIBUTION

Congressman William Kent has issued an announcement relative to the annual seed distribution, in which he says:

"The annual allotment of flower and vegetable seed by the Department of Agriculture to members of Congress has been made, and I shall be glad to send an assortment to those residents of the First Congressional district making specific request for them. Since variety and quality of seed are matters left to the discretion of the department, it may be impossible to send the varieties asked for, and in such cases some other variety will be substituted. I shall not send seed except on request, in order that only those who will use the seed may receive them."

This opportunity should be taken advantage of, as the seeds of many beautiful flowers, and bulbous plants may be secured.

Experiments in Incubation.

At the Pennsylvania station a series of experiments in incubation were conducted from which the following conclusions were drawn:

Under natural conditions eggs not promptly incubated are subject to daily warming by contact with the hen's body, which appears to have an important influence on the life and vigor of the embryo chick. Warming for sixty minutes gives better results than for thirty or one hundred and thirty.

Eggs held for incubation give better results when laid flat and turned daily.

No especial difference due to position was noted in eggs held for less than sixteen to eighteen days.

In both tests poorest results were secured with eggs placed on end and turned daily, as compared with eggs laid flat or placed on either end and not turned.

Influence of age of eggs on hatchability varied greatly, presumably due to season or conditions of breeding pen.

Eggs placed on end in incubator for first three days of incubation suffered no perceptible injury.

Eggs turned twice daily generally gave better results than those turned once daily.

Sweet Pea Seeds

are earlier blooming, a larger total number of blossoms, and a larger number of blossoms of good quality as indicated by the size of bloom and length of stem. Plants grown from large seed are heavier and bear more and longer lateral branches.

Hubbard Squash and Sweet Pumpkin respond well to seed selections. Plants grown from small seed yielded a larger number and a greater total weight of fruit, but were, however, markedly inferior with respect to size and weight of ripe fruit. Special precautions were found to be necessary in order to avoid a mixed heritage of seed. The merits of large seed in are shown in the production of larger seedling, an increased weight of early matured plants, which displayed better heading-up capabilities, earliness, and uniformity in filling the heads; in short, augmented earliness and quality.

Heavy Spinach Seed

outclasses light seed in weight of plants, width and number of leaves, height of main stalk and green earliness.

Parsley,

a biennial herb, which quickly renews its top when cut back, gives not merely larger and earlier foliage but showed greater recuperative powers when the larger seed is used.

Radishes,

one of the shortest of short term crops, show good gains in favor of large seeds. Sorting the sizes from the same parent gives as great a contrast as sorting composite samples, showing that gains may be made irrespective of the nature of the parent plants. Large seeds give a more uniform crop ready for use about one week in advance of small seed.

Trials With Beans

resulted in favor of the large seeds. The advantage accruing from the earliness of the product grown from the large seed is somewhat offset by its later germination.

In a single trial

made little or no response to size selection of seed, although a slight gain was recorded for plants from large seed if allowed to mature; but no gain was observed when harvested as green peas.

The weights and sizes of plants compared at different stages of growth show that a continuous and permanent advantage exists in favor of large seed. Plants grown from large seed possess more leave of greater surface area and hence have greater assimilative powers.

Some of the things that cause the failure of potato hills are poor soil, improper preparation, poor seed, irregular planting, poor cultivation, bugs, diseases and poor weather. Many of these conditions are controllable; all of them may be influenced by proper method of culture.

Utilize the waste! There is waste in farm and garden—small potatoes, overgrown table beets, roots of all sorts, table scraps, weeds and weed seeds, meat (fals) cooked or raw, fish waste and many other things.

Bees Bring Benefits.

Wesley Foster, State bee inspector of Colorado, says: "If people knew what a great source of profit is found in the keeping of bees and how interesting the work, there wouldn't be an unused square foot of ground on any farm in the United States."

The Farm, the Dairy and Poultry Yards

Large or Small Seed.

Perhaps this is a broader statement than is necessary to establish the fact that bee culture is both interesting and profitable. Bees have one point in their favor which no other producer that the writer can call to mind has, which is that they will produce without their keeper making any outlay of cost for their feed. With a small cost for equipment at the outset, a nice group of hives, full of busy producers, can soon be obtained, for the bees multiply very rapidly.

Many fruitgrowers find that they can carry a good bee business as a profitable sideline. The presence of bees on the fruit farm increases the quantity and quality of fruit, as they carry the pollen from one blossom to another, assisting nature in this important work.—Charles M. Meiers in Exchange

Hog Essentials

To get the best results from swine, there are several things which are as essential as proper feeding. The first of these is water. Nothing puts a hog in better shape to assimilate food more than an abundance of fresh water. The safest and best water comes from wells, and from springs or creeks that originate on one's property. Water of this character cannot be contaminated by disease from other herds up-stream. The old theory that a running stream purifies itself in a mile is utter bosh, as hog cholera has been traced to water that ran over rocks and gravel for ten miles. One floating leaf can pick up enough germs to inoculate all the herds down-stream.

Where large streams run through a farm, one should always keep in touch with the herds above to find out if there is any sickness. When such is the case, all stock should be refused access to the stream. And when one discovers that his herd is diseased, it is his duty immediately to notify all those below him of fact, and also, if possible, he should put his hogs where they cannot get near the running water. In fact, every farmer whether on a stream or not, should notify his neighbors if disease breaks out among his stock, so that they can protect and safeguard their herds. Another essential for successful hog-raising is shade. Where there are no trees, temporary shelters from old lumber or brush should be built. By having them four or five feet high with open sides, there is plenty of chance for the winds to sweep underneath and keep the hogs cool. Where hogs have such shady places they will not wallow so much in the mud. It is only when they cannot get comfortable from heat that they bury themselves in the mud. And where the hogs have to wallow from lack of proper shade, see that the place does not become foul and stagnant. Change the wallowing-place so that it has a chance to dry out and allow the sun's rays to kill all the germs. Another reason why hogs wallow is that the hogs are covered with lice and fleas. If they are sprayed in the late spring, twice at two-week intervals, much of the vermin can be killed off and the comfort of the swine greatly helped.

Cement or board feeding platforms are also necessary, as they prevent the feed from being trampled into the dirt and at the same time no germs or dust are swallowed. In the winter time, when the mud is thick, a feeding platform is the only way to prevent large losses of food. These feeding platforms should be near a hydrant, so that they can be washed off without trouble. The hogs should be allowed in them only when they are feeding from the troughs; after that they should be driven out to the pasture, their proper place at all other times. The troughs should have base-boards so that they cannot tip over, and about every foot a strip should be nailed to prevent the larger hogs from lying in the groove and thus preventing the others from getting their share of the feed.

Where one goes into the hog business, permanent hog-tight fences should be built. It does not pay to put one strip of barbed wire around the base of the fence and expect the hogs to keep within. Because once a hog learns that he can get through a fence, nothing can stop him. This not only prevents control of one's herd, but also puts one at the mercy of his neighbor's stock. If they are diseased or scrubs, one pays the penalty. They will fight and worry your swine so that it takes added feeding for them to catch up. It is the contented hog that never is harassed that puts on the flesh with the smallest amount of food—Farm Section Republican.
